

Cities Farming for the Future Programme

Cities Farming for the Future (CFF) Programme

Recognizing the Benefits of Urban Agriculture, while Addressing the Challenges

The overall goal of the CFF Programme is to contribute to reducing urban poverty, increasing urban food security, and improving urban environmental management. The Programme assists city authorities and other stakeholders in recognizing the benefits of urban agriculture while addressing also its challenges.

This is achieved by implementing activities such as policy seminar and training workshops, supporting local policy formulation and developing action plans on urban agriculture through multi-stakeholder processes.

The Programme documents experiences and facilitates networking and access to information on urban agriculture.

IWMI is the coordinating RUAF centre for Anglophone West Africa

www.ruaf.org

www.iwmi.org

